

Peculiar Pollinators

Learning Lecture

Bees allow us to survive by pollinating many of our foods, but did you know other insects, birds, mammals, and more also pollinate some of our favorite plants? Take pride in some of the unsung heroes that add to the diversity of plants around the world.

June is the perfect time to celebrate pollinators, many are buzzing around doing their ecologically necessary job. Discover the weirder side of pollination in preparation for National Pollinator Week, June 17th-23rd.
